

What is Infant/Early Childhood Mental Health Consultation?

Infant/Early Childhood Mental Health Consultation (I/ECMHC) is a prevention-based approach that pairs [an infant/early childhood] mental health consultant with adults who work with infants and young children in the different settings where they learn and grow, such as child care, preschool, home visiting, [Early/Head Start,] and early intervention. Mental health consultation is not about behavior modification. Nor is it therapy. Mental health consultation equips caregivers to facilitate children’s healthy social and emotional development.

How can I/ECMHC support my program?

I/ECMH Consultants provide an opportunity for reflection with administrators, supervisors, and early childhood professionals. This interaction allows all staff to think through their work with a mental health-oriented person, go deeper into a situation, explore options, validate your experience, and come up with the strategies needed to take next steps. I/ECMHC is NOT an expert giving advice to the members on your team. It is a collaboration, with all involved sharing their thoughts and working together towards solutions.

“Nearly 40% of ECEC programs that have excluded at least one child from their early learning program has never heard of mental health consultation.”

—Kate Zinsser, PhD, University of Illinois at Chicago

“Prior to contacting Action for Children, I did not have the resources to refer parents who needed additional support outside of my daycare setting. The consultant shared with me and the parents, organizations which could offer further support, such as family counseling. Having a Mental Health Consultant was also beneficial because after she conducted her own child observation, I was able to share my experience with her, and learn more about how I could support the child when he became aggressive. Having the MHC meet with me and the child’s mother and father was extremely helpful because I felt much more confident about what I was talking about, and because I knew she would be able to answer some of the questions the parents had, which perhaps I might of not been able to answer, had she not been there.”
